

Danish Officer receives the Order of Dannebrog

Written by AG

Thursday, 02 February 2012 14:57

On 2 February 2012, Colonel Niels H. Andersen, a Danish officer serving at Headquarters Multinational Corps Northeast (HQ MNC NE), has been awarded the Commander of the Order of the Dannebrog, a prestigious and unique distinction by Her Majesty the Queen of Denmark.

There are special days in the calendar of the Danish Armed Forces referring to some historical events of high importance when Danish soldiers can expect to receive various decorations. But today's Commander of the Order of the Dannebrog handed over to Colonel Niels H. Andersen by Colonel Søren B. Bojesen, the Senior Danish Officer at HQ MNC NE, was a complete, but for sure very pleasant, surprise to him. "It is a great honour for me," said Colonel Andersen and explained that he would also have an opportunity to thank Her Majesty the Queen of Denmark or other member of the Danish Royal Family for the distinction during an audience.

The Order of the Dannebrog is awarded among others to officers for their meritorious service and it is definitely something exceptional; there are only several hundred Orders of this class in total. The Orders are given for the rest of one's life and shall be to be published on the website of the Danish Ministry of Defense. The photo is for informational purposes only and does not constitute an official statement. The photo is for informational purposes only and does not constitute an official statement.

Danish Officer receives the Order of Dannebrog

Written by AG

Thursday, 02 February 2012 14:57