

New Conference Centre at Baltic Barracks

Written by AG

Friday, 13 October 2006 00:00

Two garages are designed for demolition in order to make place for a new building – a conference hall.

At HQ MNC NE grounds demolition works started. Two garages are designed for demolition in order to make place for a new building – a conference hall. The construction will start no sooner than in April 2007 but the preparations can already be observed.

HQ MNC NE does not have a building in which conferences, seminars, cultural events or celebrations might take place. Each time the gym is simply transformed into a conference hall. However, when this new building is ready, the problem will be solved. The future conference hall will have a seating capacity of about two hundred. There will also be additional rooms for over fifty people to work in, but also for conducting seminars and workshops.

The demolition works are going to be finished by the end of November. If the project of the new conference hall is accepted, the construction should start in April 2007. Unfortunately, until 2008 all major events will still be organized in the gym, as this is an expected date of completion of the building.