On 30th June 2007, when the summer by the calendar was already well settled and decided to put our patience to the test with light showers of rain, a group of 90 participants headed for Wolczkowo to visit the horse stables. Both the adults and the children had a lot of fun when they could mount a steed or ride a cuddly pony. For some of children it was the first chance to play with these animals. However, riding a horse or a pony was not the only attraction of this Saturday afternoon. There was also a carriage ride through the woods reminding of the fact that in the past people were not that much concerned with counting the horsepower of their four-wheeled vehicles...And there were competitions prepared in order to evoke a competitive spirit... Those who wanted to warm up and were so hungry that they could eat a horse there was a barbeque and a campfire organized by which all participants could exchange their opinions on new skills gained while horse playing.
