As a part of G4 Staff Division of the Headquarters Multinational Corps Northeast (HQ MNC NE) internal training, the second introduction to national logistics systems took place in G4 conference room on 30 March 2011.

This time, Major Marcel Janiga, a Slovak staff officer Logistic Coordinator from G4, gave a briefing to G4 members about the logistics system within the Armed Forces of Slovak Republic (AF SR). The position and place of logistics in AF SR covered the first part of this briefing and it was followed by familiarization with main logistics units. After presenting the supply chain for units deployed to missions, the audience was briefed about ongoing work on information management and current activities within the logistics environment. Major Janiga completed the briefing with the statement that the reduction of budget and The Strategic Defence Evaluation are the most discussed subjects inside military community of AF SR.

Each nation performs logistics in a different way. Nowadays, when we still can feel consequences of the world financial crises and budgets for military are reduced year by year, multinational solution for logistics is one of the preferable options how to effectively support units with all kind of material and services. To do so, knowledge of national systems is essential and vital. Due to national caveats, the development of multinational logistics meets a bunch of discrepancies but it is the only solution for saving resources. Therefore, this kind of functional area training here in multinational environment is a good way to improve personal education in order to streamline our work. All G4 members are looking forward to seeing the next
