

Visiting German Army Combat Training Centre

Written by ADAM

Thursday, 20 October 2011 07:27

The Commander of the Multinational Corps Northeast Lieutenant General Rainer Korff assisted by Brigadier General Morten Danielsson and other HQ MNC NE key personnel visited the German Army Combat Training Centre in Letzlingen from 11 October to 12 October 2011.

The aim of the visit was to familiarize HQ selected personnel with basic activities, possibilities and capacities of the Centre.

First, participants of the trip attended the briefing session while got familiar with the structure, technical aspects and profiles of the training offered by the Centre. After a theoretical introduction, a tour through the Barracks was organized. During this part of the trip, HQ personnel had opportunity to see the Fitting Hall and other training facilities.

The next day, all participants were able to observe the exercise organized in order to present possibilities of the training system.

Visiting German Army Combat Training Centre

Written by ADAM

Thursday, 20 October 2011 07:27

The German Army Combat Training Centre is one of the most advanced training facilities in Europe. It is the place where services provided by a Commercial contractor, sophisticated simulation technology as well as the expertise of operationally experienced platoon, company and battalion Commanders are pooled, resulting in realistic training in step with the requirements in the theatre of operation.